

Careers and Multiple Intelligences

Career sort...

watchmaker
policeman doctor politician baker beautician magician athlete burglar engineer professor musician pilot soldier dentist butcher fighter printer chef craftsman sailor coach pastor priest teacher salesman actor mechanic fisherman crook poet pharmacist rabbi waiter barber lawyer judge actress tailor editor farmer broker nurse shoemaker fire carpenter accountant chauffeur author veterinarian clerk waitress criminal banker

Gallery Walk: What would it be like if...

Everyone was ...

No one was ...

Goal Setting

- ▶ It is important to set goals in both strengths and challenges, but especially strengths!
- ▶ There might not have been a Mozart if someone had said to him: “You're already good enough in music. You really need to work on writing.” Or to Stephan Curry: “You’re already a great basketball player. You should focus on your drawing skills.”
- ▶ Goals must matter to you, or you won’t work at them.

The Brain and Disabilities

- ▶ We all have strengths and challenges, but what would it be like to have a severe challenge in any one of the intelligences?

